FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 1, 2026

Treasury Curve Appoints Industry Veteran Jeff Stallard as Vice President, Client Operations

MENLO PARK, CA – October 1, 2026 – Treasury Curve, the only provider that optimizes cash and investments in one place with free software, today announced that Jeff Stallard has joined the company as Vice President, Client Operations.

In this role, Stallard will lead customer operations and oversee Treasury Curve's operational relationships with financial institutions, investment managers, and third-party platform providers. He will also be responsible for ongoing client support, service delivery, and operational excellence across the firm's growing client base.

Stallard brings more than three decades of experience serving institutional investors and financial organizations. Prior to joining Treasury Curve, he held leadership positions with BlackRock Cachematrix, BofA Global Capital Management, Columbia Management, and Banc of America Capital Management, where he worked closely with institutional clients, distribution partners, and technology teams supporting cash management and investment operations.

His appointment reflects Treasury Curve's ongoing commitment to delivering a world-class client experience as the company continues to expand its platform, client relationships, and market presence.

“Treasury Curve’s clients trust us with some of their most important operational and investment workflows,” said Aron Chazen, Chief Executive Officer of Treasury Curve. “Jeff’s experience serving institutional investors at some of the world’s most respected financial organizations demonstrates our commitment to providing exceptional service and support. We are investing in experienced professionals who understand the complex operational requirements of financial institutions and who share our commitment to helping clients succeed.”

Chazen added, “As we continue to grow, delivering outstanding client outcomes remains just as important as delivering innovative technology. Jeff’s leadership and deep understanding of institutional client operations will help ensure that our clients receive the level of responsiveness, expertise, and partnership they deserve.”

“I am excited to join Treasury Curve at such an important stage in the company's growth,” said Stallard. “Treasury Curve has built a strong reputation for innovation and client focus within the institutional cash management marketplace. I look forward to working closely with our clients and partners to further strengthen the service, operational excellence, and suport that help drive their success.”

Stallard is based in Charlotte, North Carolina.

About Treasury Curve

Treasury Curve is the only provider that optimizes cash and investments in one place with free software. It provides money market fund research and trading, automated settlement, AI-powered cash sweeps, bank visibility, and other treasury capabilities. Organizations can choose the components that fit their needs and use them together as those needs evolve. Eligible clients can access the platform without an up-front software licensing fee. Learn more at www.treasurycurve.com.

# #